

Interactive Painting

With Internationally Known Artist Marge Kinney

This hands-on, group painting entertainment experience is always a hit with participants! As guests enter your event, they encounter a painting “in progress”. Guests participate by adding their own brushstrokes to a landscape scene that Marge has previously outlined on a large canvas. For some guests, it may be the first time they have ever held a paintbrush! Experienced and novice "artists" alike get to contribute to the painting.

Guests willingly respond and enjoy returning to watch how the outline transforms with each additional brushstroke into a beautiful landscape. A landscape painting allows the guests greater freedom to move the brush and to realize they too can be an artist.

Guests LOVE this interactive process and they engage with laughter and dares. It is fun to watch how comments change from “I will ruin your painting” to “See what I did...right there!”

The painting would not be considered a finished product after so many “artists” add their personal touch and remains the property of the artist. Should the host want the painting completed after the event; there is an additional charge to paint, frame and ship.
